DIRECTIONS TO THE LANGLEY RESEARCH CENTER SITE AND FRONT ENTRANCE GUARD BUILDING

VACMS is delighted that you will be attending the 4th annual conference. The NASA Langley Research Center, Hampton has generously welcomed the Mathematics Specialist Conference and all conference registered participants and presenters; making their conference space available and also providing the conference with logistical support. This is a secure government site and therefore all visitors must follow the guidelines for appropriate use. You are welcome to bring your laptops and Wi-Fi is available in the conference site.

Langley Research Center is the oldest of NASA’s field centers, located in Hampton, Virginia. It directly borders Poquoson, Virginia and Langley Air Force Base.

Note that the entrance to the NASA Langley Research Center site is close to but different from the entrance gate to the Langley Air Force base. The directions that follow are for the NASA Langley Research Center site and a link to Map It to secure driving directions from your departure location. The driver and all passengers will need to check in at the Badge and Pass Office just outside the entrance gate.
